WHY YOU SHOULD ATTEND
Duquesne Law’s Summer Study program is designed to introduce you to the United States legal system and to enhance your English speaking and writing proficiency.

The program teaches you the basic concepts related to the American law-making process and the common law system. Your coursework will introduce you to American legal research and writing methods, including online legal databases, as well as techniques U.S. lawyers use to brief cases. You will also learn about U.S. law schools’ use of the “Socratic Method” and how U.S. law students prepare for examinations.

Through the English language courses, you will learn how to improve your ability to produce clear and accurate writing, understand complex grammar structure, and support arguments and opinions in spoken English.

WHO CAN ATTEND?
- Students interested in exploring the U.S. legal system and enhancing English proficiency; and/or
- Students interested in attending Duquesne Law’s LL.M. (Master of Laws) program in August 2018 (LL.M. participation NOT required for Summer Program)
